

SAFE ON THE SCENE

SAFE JUST GOT SAFER

Kay is a young transgender woman who grew up in foster care facing many obstacles. She was told her sexual identity by others before she even truly understood it herself. Now, she has embraced who she is and has become an advocate in the Cleveland community. She is a graduate of the d-up program. Kay believes it's important to know your status and that you should not be afraid to talk about your sexual history with your partner(s). She had always thought you could take someone at their word, but not everyone gets tested and knows their status.
